CHSAA GOLF TOURNAMENT - Another success for Barb Van Eynde ’71
A Return to Jefferson Park Course Brings Out More Golfers

A personal story by Alison Sing ’64.

Sponsoring a team for the annual Cleveland High School Annual Golf Tournament has become an annual tradition for the Sing Family. No sooner had the scores been turned in to see who won this year’s tournament when visions of playing in next year’s tournament begin to swirl in my mind.

It is not winning but having the opportunity to play with family, friends and classmates that makes this annual trek a favorite for me and others.

The 10th Annual CHS Alumni Association started like all previous golf tournament with limited sleep worrying about getting to the golf course on time and will I forget anything I need for today’s golfing challenge. Yes, I spent the previous day cleaning my clubs and shoes; checking my golf bag to make sure I had enough golf balls, tees, and all important golf gadget for repairing my ball divots on the green. The inventory list goes on with snacks, water, sunglasses, golf cap, gloves, etc. Then the annual debate – will it rain? Should I wear shorts or bring a jacket.

I personally hate playing in the rain. So the weather watch begins days ahead watching the meteorologist’s forecast to see if precipitation is looming for our annual golf tournament. I believe in the ten years that the Alumni Association has hosted a golf tournament; we have only been rained on once (let’s say totally drenched upon) when we played at the Fort Lewis Golf Course.

Fortunately, the weather gods favored us this year. My team arrived bright and early Saturday morning at the Jefferson Municipal Park Golf Course; one of Seattle’s three municipal golf courses (West Seattle and Jackson being the other two). This year they were selling the traditional $10 game ticket that gave each golfer a chance to win a $100 Gift Certificate; participate in the putting contest, and the proverbial Mulligan’s one could use on the golf course. (A Mulligan is like a free pass to do over one’s golf shot without incurring a stroke count) this is a valuable tool for shaving strokes off one’s final score.

This year’s tournament featured thirteen teams of four golfers each with a shotgun start at 7:30 am. Every team was assigned a designated tee working backwards from Tee #18 to Tee #7. All teams tee off at the same time when the horn is blown with the exception of our team. We teed off when our watches said 7:30 am; a minor but forgivable transgression.

There was a morning chill and the golf course was still wet from the morning dew when we teed off on #17 — a 480 yard par 5 hole. We managed to bogie this hole; we scored a 6 for one stroke above par. Not bad for starters; it could have been better with a birdie.

For our team, scoring the classic “birdie” or even an “Eagle” (our high school mascot) became a wishful desire. At one point my younger brother saw a feather on the golf course and said that picking up the feather would probably be the closest we could get to scoring a birdie.

FEEDBACK AND COMMENT

“Handling of bin Laden’s Death . . .”: An article by Agaisha Yancey who is a reporter for the Cleveland Journal — a student newspaper at CHS.

Feedback: The article on Bin Laden should have not been in our alumni newsletter.

Comment: As the article stated, CHS “. . . is home to a number of Muslim students.” This article was obviously written by someone that is Muslim or is sympathetic to the Muslim viewpoint. This article, along with two others, was included in our newsletter to provide insight into CHS activities and/or the mind-set of the students. By including these articles in our newsletter we intended to show neither approval or disapproval of the content.

“CHS Memorial Forest Fundraiser”

Feedback: The airplane shown with the CHS Memorial Forest Fundraiser article was not a Boeing plane.

Comment: It is a 747 with flaps extended for takeoff. The photo was taken from the cover of “Legend & Legacy, The Story of Boeing and Its People.”

There was a thick cloud cover most of the morning that made playing very pleasant. The only birds we heard all morning were the jets approaching Sea-Tac Airport. We could hear them fly over but there was no way we could see them. About 10:30 am the skies cleared and we had a beautiful morning to finish our game.

This year’s tournament was not a total failure for our team. We did score two birdies during our play. My brother, John and I both managed to pull off the magical putts to claim birdies on our respective holes. For me it was visions of Tiger Woods, Jack Nicklaus and even Freddie Couples who played Jefferson during his formative years. At my age, I turn Medicare eligible this year, the vision of success was truly fleeting.

Par for this golf course is 70 and we brought home a respectable 77 — 7 strokes over par. For me, this is a wonderful score, since I never break 120 on my own. We finished our round about noon and headed back to the clubhouse to turn in our score.

As team captain, I turned in our score for posting. As each team finished, their scores were posted as well. One reason I love to play the annual Alumni Association golf tournament is for the fellowship and the challenge it brings each year. Of course we don’t expect to win the tournament but posting a score in the middle of the pack is most desirable from my team’s perspective. At least the Golf Committee spared our team by not giving an award for “highest gross” this year.

This year’s luncheon fare prepared by the Jefferson Golf Course restaurant staff was one of the best that I have eaten. They prepared a wonderful lunch of barbecue ribs, chicken, baked beans, and potato salad with a variety of non-alcoholic drinks and beer for the taking. This was far better than par for a golfer’s feast.

I want to extend my kudos to the golf committee for arranging this wonderful fare and to Mother Nature for not raining on us. Barb Van Eynde, again did a yeoman’s job this year, and, along with her committee members, deserves our heartfelt thanks.

My only request or plea is please!, please!, and pretty please! return next year with the Licorice Ropes. Some of us golfers are addicted to them. My friend says our golf tournament is the only time in the year he gets to eat the Licorice Rope. So for us so-so golfers, even if we did not win the tournament we at least have bragging rights for beating the course’s score. Now, that is something to wish for next year’s golf tournament. TEXT: Licorice Ropes to #2012.
Golf Tournament Results
By John Barton ‘54

The CHS Alumni Association Golf Tournament was a big success, thus continuing a series of profitable tournaments organized by Barbara Van Eynde ‘71. This year the tournament netted a profit of $2500, the bulk of which goes to our scholarship fund. The tournament was played at the popular Jefferson Park Golf Course where many of our golfers learned to play the game. Based on post-tournament comments, many players want to keep future tournaments at the same location — we have already booked it for 2012.

Many players arrived early to register, purchase their $10 Mulligan Packages and practice their putting. We had a tee time of 7:30AM with a reverse shotgun start. The tournament started under overcasted skies BUT it wasn’t raining; it ended under mostly sunny skies.

After the tournament we had a fabulous lunch that was prepared by the Jefferson Golf Course restaurant staff. Tournament winners were announced and great prizes were distributed. The specific results are provided below:

1st Place Team: Led by Jay Turner ’75 and included Joe Ishitani, Dan Hagan ’73 and Scott Nishamoto. Low score of 57.

2nd Place Team: Led by Skeeter Keene ’72 and included Tom Hoshikawa, John Nelson ’72, and Frank Harrison. A Score of 60.

JOIN US FOR NEXT YEAR’S TOURNAMENT AUGUST 8TH 2012
A Message from El Presidente’

The Cleveland High School Alumni Association (CHSAA) is having elections in January 2012 and I am stepping down from my leadership role. It is time for this Association to turn over its leadership to younger alumni members. I have served as president, vice president, treasurer and board member so I have had a variety of responsibilities. In this last newsletter as president, I want to make note of the significant activities that have taken place in recent times. Obviously, none of these items could have been accomplished without the support of the other board members.

- We collect donations for a variety of activities including scholarships, our Memorial Forest, athletics, mail & printing, and the general fund. The donations were accurate and well categorized but we didn’t have a good handle on how much money was in each spending category. After a thorough review of the records we finally arrived at an estimate of what was available in each category. This was significant because some committee chairpersons had no idea how much money was available to them.

- A push was made to spend the money of the Association. People donate money for specific activities so it is the responsibility of CHSAA to spend that money in a responsible way. As you can see in the Treasurer Report (page 13) we have significantly increased our spending for scholarships and athletics in the 2010-11 school year. We also provided funds to cover Journalism class expenses.

- The bulk of our financial resources are invested in relatively safe mutual funds. When I first joined the board our investments were in CDs (Certificates of Deposits) and I believed that this was a responsible approach for a non-profit organization. A basic objective of CHSAA was to build up the value of the Scholarship Endowment Fund so we would have a guaranteed income every year for scholarships. But in 2009 our CD investments brought in only $169 because of the extremely low interest rates the banks were paying. This amount was simply inadequate for funding a single scholarship let alone multiple scholarships. A broker was contacted who specializes in conservative investments for non-profit organizations. As you can see in the Treasurer Report (page 13), in this bad economy we have made over $9000 since July of 2010. We are down from our April 2011 high of about $12,000 but still doing well.

- Our first essay contest was sponsored this Fall and cash awards to the top three winners were given (Page 11). An even larger essay contest is scheduled in the Spring. We are interested in sponsoring science and math contests as well. These contests should fit right in with the new STEM programs at CHS. [STEM = Science, Technology, Engineering & Math]

- I have tried to provide a new look to The Alumni Newsletter as well as making it informative to our members as to what is happening in our Association as well as with the students in CHS.

- Last, but not least, an activity is in progress to upgrade the sign for our Memorial Forest. The current sign reads: Cleveland Memorial Forest. It is my personal belief that this name is misleading. If you try to look up our Memorial Forest on the internet you will likely be reading about some site in or near Cleveland, Ohio or about the Cleveland National Forest near San Diego, California. Our 132-acre Memorial Forest honors neither President Cleveland nor the city in Ohio. It honors the alumni from Cleveland High School who lost their lives while serving in our armed forces. Therefore the name and the sign should be: Cleveland High School Memorial Forest. Critics have suggested that the words “high school” will result in vandalism of the sign from rival high schools. But our Memorial Forest is not readily accessible – it’s located near Fall City. Also, we are working on a sign concept that instills patriotism. Hopefully this would discourage most students from damaging the sign.

CHS MEMORIAL FOREST FUNDRAISER

By John Barton ’54

As advertised in the recent newsletter of May 2011, the CHS Alumni Association was invited to participate in a fundraiser with the benefits going to the CHS Memorial Forest.

A local research company is assisting Boeing in an air passenger research study to evaluate passenger comfort and satisfaction while participating in a simulated wide-body airplane flight of long duration. While on board a 767 mockup near Boeing Field, our volunteers were able to watch movies, operate passenger seat electronics, chat with other volunteers, work on their laptops, plus a variety of things just like on a real airplane flight. The reward for completing the simulated flight was $150 per person for our fundraiser.

Many people contacted our Alumni Association with a desire to participate. We gave them information for contacting the local company where each volunteer had to provide basic information about themselves including medical info. Many people balked at filling out the medical questionnaire. As a result the number of volunteers was drastically reduced.

The volunteers that successfully completed the flight simulation are listed below. For their efforts we are very grateful.

The results of the fundraiser are disappointing. The money we brought in essentially covered our costs for printing and mailing the fliers. The fundraiser started off with great enthusiasm. We received far more phone calls than some people expected and we immediately provided contact information for the local company that was doing the research work — that was our primary function. We don’t understand why the medical questionnaire was such a problem for many volunteers but it was.

We were under the impression that our volunteers were going to participate primarily on one date — like a reunion on an airplane — but that didn’t happen. So only eleven people participated in the fundraiser.

Making matters worse, the local company sent the checks for our volunteer’s efforts to Cleveland High School instead of the CHS Alumni Association. Thinking they were donations, the high school worked the dollar amount into their annual budget and planning. The Alumni Association had committed to the volunteers that the profits from their efforts would go to the CHS Memorial Forest so we had to retrieve the funds from the high school. What a mess.

I apologize to the volunteers and everyone involved. We had the best of intentions but it simply didn’t work out.

CLEVELAND TO CELEBRATE ‘TEAM OF THE CENTURY’ / BOYS BASKETBALL [Dateline July 2011]

By Mason Kelley, Seattle Times staff reporter

Carl Ervin, James Woods and Jawaan Oldham, who helped Cleveland win state titles in 1975 and ’76, will have their jerseys retired Friday.

Carl Ervin considers the memories of his playing days at Cleveland High School some of the fondest he’s experienced. For two seasons, 1974-75 and ’75-76, the Eagles were hoops heroes. They won back-to-back state titles while going 50-1, with four players going on to play Division I college basketball.

“We really stayed close and those were some of the best times of our lives,” said Ervin, who played at Seattle University and is an assistant coach at O’Dea. “The bonds we made with those two teams and the times down at Cleveland are something that’s lasted a lifetime, really.”

The success of those teams and the leadership of the players helped spark a renaissance of school pride. For their accomplishments both on and off the floor, the 1975-76 team was named The Seattle Times’ Team of the Century in 1999. On Friday, the school will retire the jerseys of Ervin, James Woods and Jawaan Oldham between boys and girls varsity games at Cleveland against Chief Sealth. The boys game starts at 6:15 p.m. and the girls game at 8.

“When the season’s over, things are forgotten pretty fast at a high school,” said former school principal Bill Maynard, who will emcee the event. “But, in this case, by the time these kids were juniors, we were able to parlay what happened in basketball to building pride in the school.”

“We went from having fights every day to two fights in an entire year. It was just incredible. Our absentee rate went down. Our dropout rate went down. It had a huge effect in carrying over to building pride in the school.”

Members of the Seattle basketball community, including Lenny Wilkens, Lorenzo Romar and Cameron Dollar, will join faculty and alumni in celebrating the accomplishments of a group that remains close.

“For those people in the basketball community to come and pay homage and give respect to our teams and our accomplishments 30-some-odd years later is a great honor,” Ervin said. “It really means a lot. It just shows those really were some special times.” [NOTE: Our July 2011 CHSAA newsletter included an article about Carl Ervin’s death.]
"ORDER IS HEAVEN’S FIRST LAW"

Those were the words painted on the podium in the front of the band portable at Cleveland High School in 1954. The director of the band and orchestra was Mr. Charles Shearer, a thirty year-old gentleman who stood 6'3” and commanded a quiet respect from his students.

Charlie played several instruments but his favorite was the baritone horn. In the band he built up over the years of over fifty members strong, he had four or five baritones in the lineup.

Before he came to Cleveland, he served in the U.S. Army during WWII. Charlie went ashore in the invasion of Okinawa along with 17,000 other troops. Only 7,000 of them walked away after the fierce battle. Charlie took advantage of the G.I. bill and returned to his home town of Spokane to finish his education. He made the decision to come to Seattle and work for the Seattle Public Schools.

He worked at Cleveland for a bit less than ten years and then had the opportunity to move over to our arch-rival Franklin as Vice-Principal. Then, in the 60’s with all the civil unrest, Charlie got out of the line of fire and moved to the Kent School District as the Vice-Principal of Sequoia Middle school, from which he retired.

In retirement, he was able to pursue his hobby of restoring classic cars. One of his major projects was the complete restoration of a 1928 Packard four-door sedan. It was a bit rough when Charlie started this job. The entire body, from the windshield back, had been removed and a wrecker’s hook and lift installed where the trunk used to be. Charlie made a new roof from scratch and found four doors and a trunk to rebuild the body. He found or built many other parts to complete the exterior and hand-sewed all the upholstery for the interior. He did such a nice job of it that Harold LeMay, the famous car collector in Tacoma bought it from him for $6,000!

In later life Charlie was awarded the distinction of a 33rd degree Mason for his tireless work in interviewing and selecting high school students to receive college scholarships from the Scottish Rite, a branch of the Masonic Lodge. I was honored to help him in that work.

Charlie carried his love of music along with him throughout his career and into retirement. He was married to his wife, Jan, for 60 years. He played coronet in the Tacoma Shrine band and even played weekly at the Tacoma Elks club. He was an active Ham Radio operator right up to his passing.

I had played in the Shrine Band with Charlie and knew he regretted selling his old Packard. The president of my car club in Tacoma is a volunteer with the LeMay foundation, so I asked him to see if the foundation still owned the Packard. He reported back that they still have it and it is stored at Marymount academy, the temporary home for many of the 3,600 cars in the collection. He and I decided to reunite Charlie with his Packard, at least for a short visit. I invited Charlie out to lunch in Tacoma, along with Jim Stott, the car club prez.

After lunch, we told Charlie that Jim had an errand to run before we headed back home. We drove out to Marymount, hopped into a golf cart to ride over to the proper building. Letting Charlie go through the door first, he saw the Packard sitting just inside the door, all polished up! I thought his chin was going to drop through the floor. He let out a whoop and a holler, exclaiming, “That’s MY PACKARD!”.

For the next hour, Charlie was able to admire his old car, run his hands over the paint and upholstery, show us the parts he had cast and polished, and tell us all about it. He even sat in the driver’s seat for photos. Both Jim and I had tears in our eyes, being able to reunite this old veteran, who fought so gallantly for our freedom, with his “baby.”

Sadly, within just a couple of weeks, Charlie was suddenly stricken with complications from Diabetes and passed away peacefully in his sleep. He was 90 years old and seemingly still tall, hale of limb and quick-witted right up to the end. He was a friend to all and especially the young people he loved and taught. He will be missed, but remembered as long as his students are alive.

CHS ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

ESSAY CONTEST

The CHS Alumni Association sponsored an essay contest with the junior-level US History/American Literature class taught by Mr. Chris Drape, who picked an essay topic related to a recent area of class study. The top three finalists would receive cash rewards.

The specific topic of the essay contest was: “Analyze the extent to which the interpretation and application of the Bill of Rights have struck an appropriate balance between the common good for society and the rights of the individual.”

Everyone in the class participated. The papers were screened by Mr. Drape and the class, with the ten best papers identified for further evaluation by the contest judges. The judges included Margie (Wallrof) Brown and John & Mary Lou (Zarkades) Barton, all from the class of 1954.

The topic seemed to be of great interest to the students. The essay papers discussed issues that were studied in class as well as judicial issues in recent news stories. Overall, the judges were impressed with the students, Mr. Drape and the enthusiasm the students displayed in class.

Cash prizes were awarded to the winners and all ten finalists received Certificates of Recognition. One objective of the contest was to demonstrate that financial gain could be realized by using one’s intellect.

1ST PLACE:  RYK MURAKAMI    $75
2ND PLACE:  KIAWE FARR       $50
3RD PLACE:  CHAU VO          $25

The other finalists included: Claudette Bongato, Khalid Mohamed, S’Kaila Morrison, Michael Nguyen, Carlos Nieto, Zac Tong, and Winnie Wu.

Another essay contest with Mr. Drape is being planned for in the Spring with a larger group of students. Hopefully, the scope of future contests will be broadened to include mathematics and science.

For the judges, this was a very rewarding experience.

Bob Desjardins, class of 1953, made a donation in memory of his wife Alice who passed away in 1993.

Patrick C. Tymony class of ’72 passed away in April of 2011. His widow, Heather, made a donation in his memory. Funds were allocated to the choir, the basketball athletic fund and also to our general fund.

Good friends lost but not forgotten
BOB TRAINA ‘39 LEAVES GENEROUS CONTRIBUTION - The CHS Alumni Association was notified in January that we would be receiving a bequest of approximately $15,000 from the estate of Bob Traina, Class of 1939. The bequest was recently received and we are very grateful and appreciative of his generosity. Apparently Bob valued his education at Cleveland High School and wanted to contribute to further the objectives of our Alumni Association.

Bob Traina graduated in 1939 and passed away in November 2010. He served in the US Army following high school and later worked successfully in construction work as a foreman. He had an inquiring mind and wanted to know “how was it built” and “how does it work.”

Bob was a frequent contributor as an Eagle 100. He enjoyed hunting, fishing and traveling and he was a lifetime member of the Elks Lodge.

The CHS Alumni Association will strive to use this generous bequest from Bob Traina to fulfill its many goals.

Thank you, Bob Traina.

TREASURER’S REPORT

The top chart shows the chief expenditures for the past three years.

This year’s income has included contributions and a $2000 matching gift (SEF) from the State of Washington. A large amount from the estate of Bob Traina ‘39 was received this year - see article above. The Golf Tournament netted $2,500.

The lower chart show the performance of our investments. Down from last Spring but still showing a profit of 7.0 percent relative to July 2010.

Additional details will be provided at the Annual Meeting, Jan 14, 2012. Our financial advisor, Jon Rolof from Edward Jones will attend. Membership is invited to attend and we are looking for feedback and ideas for income generation and spending. Our donation coupon form (page 15 in each newsletter) has not been reviewed or updated recently; you can comment by correspondence or by attending the meeting.
